

Picking up the Pieces: Fact and Fiction in Intergenerational Trauma Transmission

Faculty of Psychotherapy
ULURU - September 2017
Dr George Halasz

Image - attenuated

simple image

Vague Image -> Clear Picture

- Trauma/dissociation
- 'Psychic' or 'Real' Trauma
- Fact or Fiction

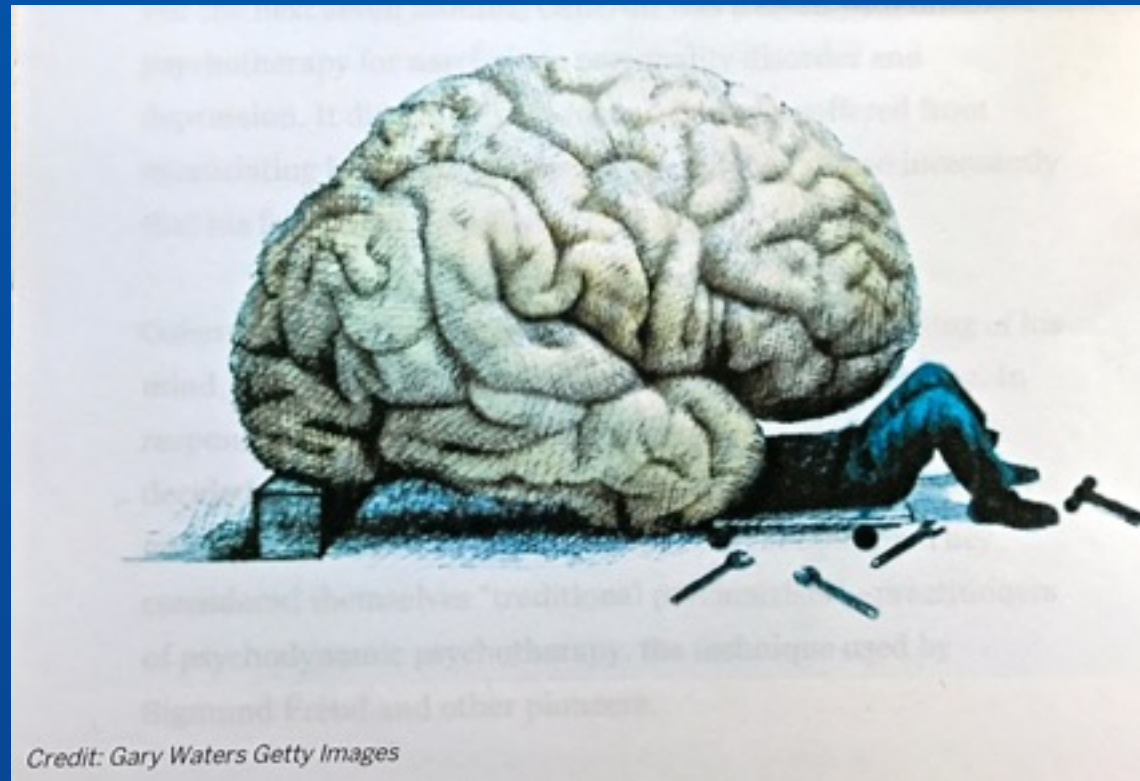

Relational Trauma - reparative moment-to-moment

- trauma - dissociation

- repair

Single-case study of intergenerational trauma transmission and repair

- relational trauma transmission

- relational trauma repair

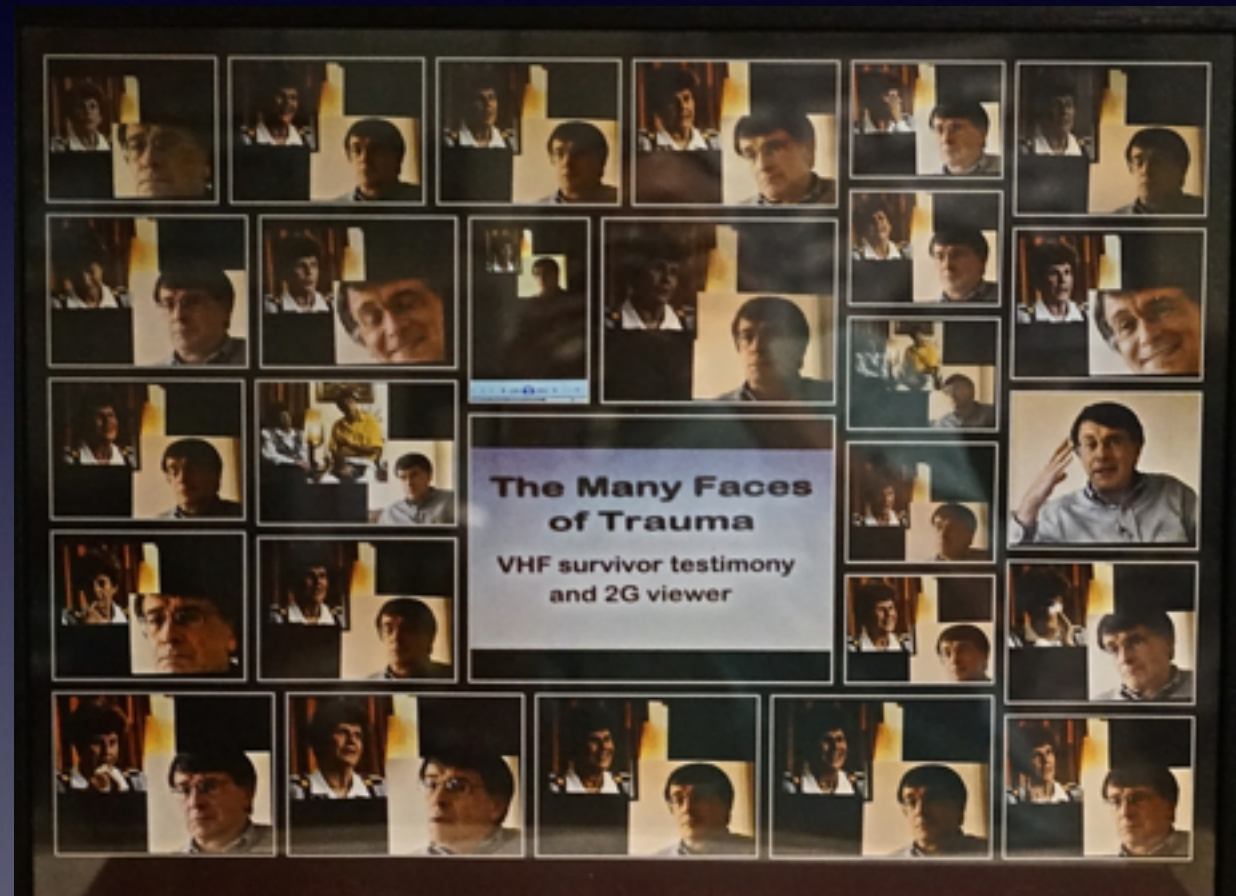

Picking up the Pieces: Fragments of Experience

- 1 not knowing-dissociation ->
- 2 fugue states
- 3 Fragments ('PIECES')
- 4 transference phenomena
- 5 narrative - overpowering
- 6 life themes
- 7 narrative - witnessed
- 8 trauma as metaphor

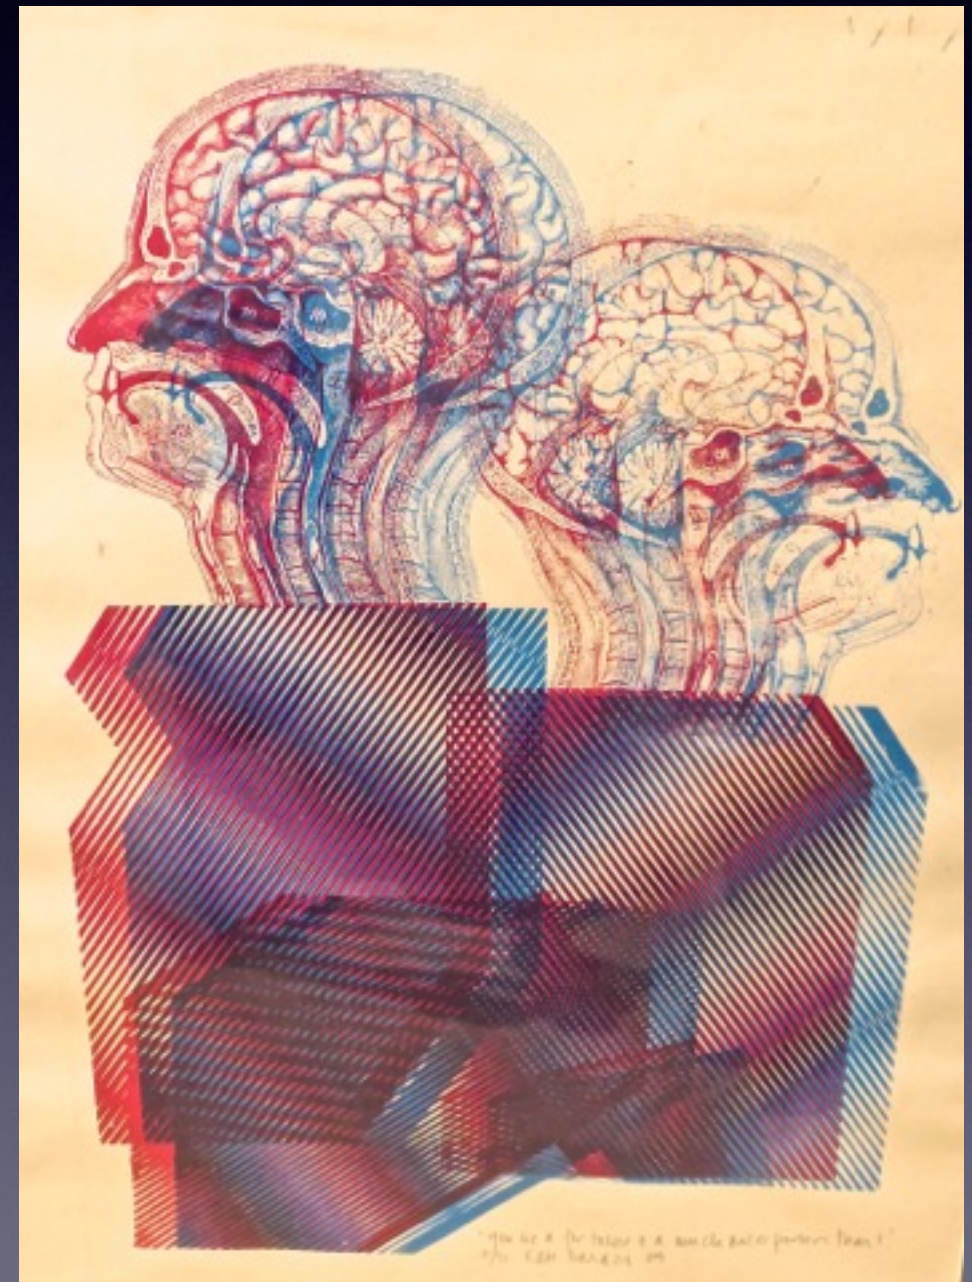

Infused: a magnetic resonance scanner to capture a woman and her baby. (Rebecca Saxe)

Intergenerational Trauma Transmission and Witnessed Repair

-> 'Single Case' to 'Psychoanalysis' as Holocaust Survivor -> a profession picking up the pieces ...

- 2001 - 2017
- September 11, 2001-17
- Relational Trauma
- Dissociative Attunement
- transference: nachträglichkeit
- Psychoanalysis, 2017
- -> Holocaust Survivor

Picking up the Pieces: Fact and Fiction in Intergenerational Trauma Transmission

Phenomenology of 'Out of Sight, In Plain View'

Acknowledgement - my ongoing gratitude and appreciation to my mum, Alice Halasz, for her 'Mum Test' interest, inspiration and sustained support for exploring and expanding our understanding of the complex nature of intergenerational trauma.